VISIT OUR BOOTH AT THE LAKE LURE ARTS AND CRAFTS FESTIVAL SATURDAY-MONDAY, MAY 27-29

Our LLFB volunteers have been working for months, crafting an array of handmade items to offer for donations at the Lake Lure Arts and Crafts Festival May 27-29 in downtown Lake Lure adjacent to the Arcade. These talented folks have designed, created, constructed and painted items ranging from ornaments to plant markers and decorative painted signs and rocks. There are bookmarks and fairy wands for home and garden decor and unique painted tic-tac-toe games. We will also have beautiful photographs of the bridge and gardens on display, too. Every donation adds more beauty to the Lake Lure Flowering Bridge and more renown to our Hickory Nut Gorge.

We appreciate and celebrate here the many volunteers who gave their time and talent to craft the items to be exchanged for donations to LLFB. Dan Bails, Eleanor Bails, Marta Campbell, Mitsi Chorak, Veryle Lynn Cox, Susie Ellis, Marily Floyd, Charlotte Gardner, Alice Garrard, Tom

🌻 DOT VISITORS SEEK OUT OUR BRIDGE GARDENS

Garden Committee Co-Chair Kathy Tanner had an unexpected opportunity to lead a special tour across the bridge and through the gardens in early May. Her account follows here:

"I stopped in to put in some fencing near the Secret Garden. As I pulled in to the parking lot about 8 NCDOT Highway trucks pulled in with me. Then this lovely group of NCDOT bridge engineers from Raleigh piled out of the trucks. Of course, I stopped them to say hello. They are on a tour of NC bridges. One of the fellows had seen our piece on the Tarheel Traveler in Raleigh and they came our way specifically to see our bridge and gardens. No, they weren't interested in the new bridge but in OURS!!!! I spent 30 minutes talking about everything from decking, waterproofing, drainage to volunteers!!! They had an absolute fit over us! I did a little happy dance!"

Thanks, Kathy, for being the face and voice of the LLFB and for sharing the story and photo with us.

🌻 THE GARDEN PARTY WAS A BREEZE!

Despite wind gusts blowing down the Gorge, toppling chairs and creating crazy hairstyles, we bundled up for our annual meeting (that we call a garden party) and had a fun day telling the LLFB story and greeting our guests with refreshments, too.

🌻 PLANT-A-CHAIR WORKSHOP CREATIONS NOW IN GARDENS

Led by LLFB volunteer Lynn Lang, folks gathered to learn how to turn an old chair (or other furniture item) into a planter. [Right: Lynn's photo by Danny Holland] This has been a popular LLFB workshop in prior years and proved so again this year. The creative results now appear throughout the gardens, offering visitors ideas for their own gardens at home. Garden Co-Chair Kathy Tanner brought not only chairs but a table or two. The seats of chairs were prepared with screen and soil for best results and the gardeners began their work. It's great to see how items can be repurposed, turning what is old not only into something new, but a thing of beauty to be enjoyed in our gardens. [Thanks to Kathy Tanner for the chair photos.]

🌻 LLFB WELCOMES TOUR GROUPS

Alice Garrard snapped the photo above as LLFB welcomed members of the Mountain View Garden Club from Waynesville for a tour of the bridge led by Kathy Tanner and Debbie Clark. We appreciate our visitors and ask that tour groups wanting guides contact us in advance to arrange for docents. Call Alice Garrard or Danny Holland at (828 625-2540)

TAKING THE LLFB ON THE ROAD

Our volunteers often step out of the gardens to take our message "on the road." Bill Massey, who regularly works in the gardens alongside wife Paige, also serves as our liaison to the Town of Lake Lure Parks and Recreation Board. In his spare time he speaks on behalf of the LLFB as he did recently during the Joy in the Garden Symposium presented by the Green Blades Garden Club in Tryon. Thanks, Bill, for representing us well. [Photo from Alice Garrard]

LOCAL ARTISTS CONTRIBUTE THEIR TALENTS TO LLFB

The Lake Lure Flowering Bridge has been the recipient of many gifts through our years. In addition to the hundreds of volunteer gardening hours, we are supported in many other ways, as well. At this year's upcoming Lake Lure Arts and Crafts Festival (LLACF)

May 27-29, two local artists have once again stepped up to help. Vervyle Lynn Cox and Amy Wald created the beautiful mural that graces our West End garden. In addition, each of them has lent her talents in a myriad of ways that have helped our gardens grow. Now they have designed and donated items for the LLACF that we can exchange for donations there. Thank you, Vervyle Lynn, for the beautiful magnets and thank you, Amy, for the painted items that will be welcome in any garden. We deeply appreciate your continued support. [Photos from Alice Garrard.]

LAURA COX: I ALWAYS FIND PEACE & CONTENTMENT ON LLFB, THANK GOODNESS FOR THE ONES WHO MADE THIS IDEA REAL.

Not all that's green is a plant as Marily Floyd's photo of this Carolina anole in the Rock and Succulent Garden demonstrates. Frequent visitors in our area, these little ones are sometimes called "American chameleons" because they can also appear as an olive-brownish color. They are classified as lizards, but not chameleons.
